While there's nothing quite like eating a hot dog from the stands, sometimes making it to the stadium on game night can be hassle. Here's some restaurants that offer football food at a moment's notice.

barleymash offers beer and warm garlic-butter pretzels. Check out the battered and fried pickle spears or indulge in a bowl of rich mac n' cheese.

Union Kitchen & Tap offers the Brandt Beef Padre Burger, a local favorite. It's a big fat macadamia nut and butterscotch cookie for dessert.

Try your hand at Wood Ranch's Spinach-Artichoke dip and salsa. The Peanut Coleslaw game day is the perfect side to your main dish.

Bub's at the Beach has everything you need to for your football food experience. Munch on some Lil' Corn Dogs or Chips and Dip or a batch of buffalo wings.

Maverick's Beach Club is loaded with delicious fry combinations. Try the Buffalo shoestring or California fries. Explore Maverick's five indoor and outdoor bars touting a total of 38 television screens.

The Pacific Beach AleHouse football menu ranges from TJ Hot Dog Sliders to Tri Tip Dip. One of the biggest crowd-pleasers is by far is the Crispy Pork Tenderloin Sando.

At Curbside Eatery and Drinkery, you can't go wrong with the La Mesa, a bleu cheese, arugula, and spicy aioli sandwich served on a torta roll with your choice of grilled steak or chicken. Or, splurge with the Beer Battered Cauliflower and Onion Rings, a healthier twist on a game day classic.
